Sierra Madrean exonerated of allegations

Eden Slegr, a long-time Sierra Madre resident, and co-owner of Hospitality Network International, a Sierra Madre-based hotel executive placement and consulting firm, was exonerated of all charges that had been levied against him by his two former business associates of the now-defunct Cornell Hospitality Search, Inc., a subsidiary of Renard International.

The four-month ordeal for Slegr and his family began in early May of this year when Tom Hamill and Steve Renard, former partners in the defunct Cornell Corporation, alleged that Slegr had removed office furniture and business files to begin a competing placement service.

Donald Sowers, Slegr's attorney, and a former police detective and deputy district attorney, conducted an investigation which demonstrated Slegr's innocence and then contacted Detective John Cordishi of the Sierra Madre Police Department as well as Deputy District Attorney Michael Pargament to advise them of the conflicting assertions as to ownership of the property.

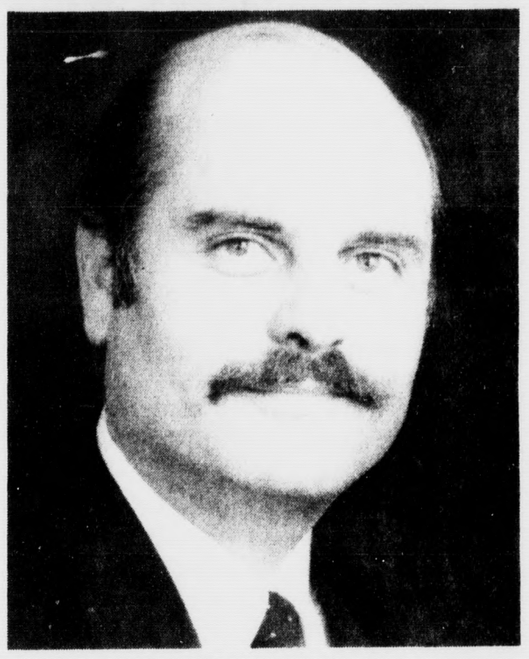

Sowers stated that though he was disappointed that it took police several months to interview the other employees present during the actual moving of the equipment, he was "pleased" that his client was spared the anguish and considerable expense of proving his innocence in a trial. Despite previous articles to the contrary, it should be noted that Slegr was never "being sought," neither was he ever arrested nor arraigned.

Recently the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office conducted a further review of the allegations and then asked Judge Judson Morris Jr. to dismiss all charges that had been filed. Judge Morris, the presiding judge of Pasadena Municipal Court, concurred and dismissed the case "in the interests of justice."

Attorney Sowers states that Slegr is now contemplating bringing malicious prosecution charges and interference with his business rights against Tom Hamill and Steven Renard of Renard International and is awaiting the return of his seized property.

But, for the moment, "Slegr and his family are anxious to get things back to normal, he is hopeful that he can restore his good reputation in the community, and move forward with his life and Sierra Madre-based worldwide placement business," said his attorney.

Slegr said, "You can never know what it feels like to be unjustly accused and how difficult it is to face unwarranted charges. I'm happy it's over and my family and I are very thankful for the support of those who stood by us, believed in me and recognized my innocence."

4th Estate Sale Saturday, Caldwells

By Hank Landsberg

It has been said that Americans have more "stuff" than anyone so "it's better to recycle these times than let them go in the landfills," said Caroline Brown this week as she viewed items for the Friends of the Sierra Madre News "4th Estate Sale" Saturday, Oct. 2, all day.

The 4th Estate sale is locted at Gordon and Mary Lou Caldwell's home at 171 E. Grandview.

The term "4th Estate" is used becuase that term applies to all media, and donations from the sale will go the The News, part of the 4th Estate. The date, Oct. 2, is significant, also, because that was the date of the first paper published by Jan Reed in 1980 after she purchased the paper from R. Robert Evans.

A few of the more significant items for sale are children's toys, clothing, games, adult clothing for both men and women, microwave ovens and TV sets, furniture which includes a complete waterbed and bedroom set, lawnmower, garden shredder, copying machine, fire extinguisher, typewriters, jewelry, 2 bathroom sinks, 3 doors, small appliances, 2 Sierra Madre street signs, some antique Sierra Madre News stands, a stereo cabinet, books, housewares, gardening pots, bicycles, patio blinds, curtains, a desk and chair, jewelry, ladies handbags, birdcage, wooden shutters, lamps, Volkswagen tire rims, patio chairs, curtain rods, 2 TV carts, carpet scraps, fabric scraps, dress patterns, to name a few.

The Friends of the Sierra Madre News is a group of concerned citizens who volunteer their time and effort in order to ensure the continuing publication of our local newspaper, the Sierra Madre News. The fund-raiser will enable the Friends to continue their work of improving the newspaper and its production facilities.

Fire Prevention Festival set for Saturday, Oct. 2

The 7th annual Fire Prevention Festival presented by the Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Department will be held Saturday, Oct. 2, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the fire station No. 41, located at 242 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre.

There will be a variety of exhibits at the Fire Prevention Festival, including a blood pressure booth, emergency medical equipment, fire fighting equipment, home fire safety handouts, the use of portable fire extinguishers by Marx Bros., the U.S. Forest Service with "Smokey the Bear," Yogi Bear's "Shakey Quakey Trailer," Cool Water's Sprinkler Trailer as well as representatives from Southern California Edison and the Gas Company. There will also be free batteries for smoke detectors donated by Eveready Battery.

The department will be selling hot dogs and sodas at the festival with the proceeds going to the Sierra Madre Firefighters Association. Free balloons will be given to all children attending the festival and they will also have a coloring contest with one of three videos being given away.

The officers and members of the Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Department invite the community to participate. More information will be published next week.

The News to celebrate 13 years

Saturday, Oct. 2, is our 13th anniversary since we purchased the Sierra Madre News from R. Robert Evans. Our first paper was published on Oct. 2, 1980.

We would like to invite everyone to stop by on Monday, Oct. 4, for some punch and cookies anytime during the day.

We welcome you all to celebrate our "lucky 13" anniversary.

Status letters concerning URM out this week

This week, Steve Pock, building official, is sending out letters to owners of all URM (unreinforced masonry buildings) in Sierra Madre, giving everyone a 60-day notice to comply with the URM ordinance restrictions or "after 60 days (by around Dec. 1) buildings must be vacated," he said. At that point, the nuisance abatement procedure will be initiated.

"The abatement process may result in additional time, depending upon specific conditions of rehabilitation needed," Spock said.

Specifically, 22 structures remain under URM status. Nine have building permits issued and are currently under rehabilitation construction.

Five are in the plan check process with plan check fees paid. Two have building permits issued but work has not started. Five have no plans submitted for rehabilitation, Pock reported.

The last one, the senior citizen center, is a historic structure and the city is working with the engineer to develop a rehab plan.

The following addresses are in specific designated work: 29 N. Baldwin, in plan check; 34 N. Baldwin, permit issued and work in progress; 41, 43 and 45 N. Baldwin, permit issued, work in progress.

At 25 S. Baldwin the permit is issued and the work is in progress; 5 and 7 Kersting Court, in plan check; 9 and 11 Kersting Court, permit issued and work in progress; 15 Kersting Court, no rehabilitation plans submitted.

Independent auditor needed

A number of Sierra Madreans have called or stopped at The News to verbalize their concern that the auditing firm chosen to check through Sierra Madre city finances for the past five years was the same firm that Sierra Madre has used during those years.

"Why wasn't an independent auditing firm used? It's pretty easy to find nothing wrong with finances that you've been auditing for years. It would reflect on your work," one person observed.

Another mentioned that the auditors who were auditing their own work shouldn't have charged the city. After all, they were just checking their own work.

Still someone else noted that the auditors would not find anything wrong with the work because they had watched over the city all of these years.

Whether any of these statements are true or not, it probably would have been more prudent to have an independent firm perform the audit on Sierra Madre's books. Undoubtedly, the "white paper" would have revealed the same information. But everyone would have felt easier about the outcome.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● The surveys, inserted in a recent edition of The News and asking for a response, keep rolling in and we find your comments extremely interesting and helpful. We particularly enjoyed the diversity of your suggestions and the juxtaposition of them, also.

● Last week we named the columns you would most like to see—they continue to hold first place, such as gardening columns, home repair assistance, recipe and cooking columns, history and architecture, more profiles on people in town, particularly merchants.

Because there were many of the last-named, I plan to revise the Pepper Tree column to feature local businesses. Rather than categorize interviews of the same businesses, i.e., grocery stores, at the same time, we will skip around, surprising you each week with a different category of merchant.

We hope you'll enjoy these merchant profiles.

● One thing we found interesting, as I pointed out earlier, is the juxtaposition of impressions reflected.

Some said they like hearing about all the good things happening.

Others said, "We want to hear what's REALLY going on at city hall. Don't shield us."

● Some say "more travel articles" and others report they'd like no more travel articles.

● Seniors ask why there's so little senior news. Others say that the paper is "geared toward the elderly population." Another person said he/she missed "I remember when" items, and added "but then I'm old."

● Someone said the paper doesn't reflect the diversity of the community and yet others enjoy "the wide span of interest."

● "Things to do on weekends for kids" came out several times. The suggestion of placing a city map in the paper, publicizing trash pickup dates, teen question and answer columns were popular.

● Some people miss our Upper Hastings Ranch Happenings. We'll look into that soon.

● Another person would like to see essays and art work of kids. Perhaps those can be published when the various schools write their columns.

● Someone said, "I read everything. Even the ads and classifieds."

● A couple suggested a "Notes for Newcomers" column. Good idea. I'll be calling you.

● Several would like us to continue publishing building permits once more. I wonder if Betty Garvin would do that for us again. Betty?

● One interesting suggestion was a "What's in Bloom" column and an "Arboretum Beat," not just individual articles. Those are worth pursuing.

● Do any of you remember when we had cartoons by kids? By the way, several of you requested no cartoons by kids. Do any of you remember when we ran crossword puzzles?

● Do you remember "Notes From the Attic" in which we showcased leading articles from papers 50 years ago, 25 years ago and 10 years ago? I'm still trying to find someone to take on that column. It is great fun to peruse early-day papers, noting prices, people, activities. If there's anyone out there who would like to take that one on, let us know. It's lots of fun and doesn't take long. Unfortunately, I just don't have the time.

● We've also had a good response from photos taken around Sierra Madre. When we did it one time in the Pepper Tree column, we had our first respondant at 6:30 a.m. on Friday morning. And he told us he was mad that he didn't buy the paper at the stands, also, that week or he could have had the response in at 6:30 a.m. (through the slot, of course) on Thursday morning.

● For those who asked how they could contribute articles, we suggest you send them to 9 Kersting Court, Sierra Madre 92014, Attn. Jan. and we welcome them.

● In answer to the question of whether or not you folks would like to contribute, one person crossed it off and wrote, "I'll spare you." Often a bit of humor.

You see how interesting you all are? Thank you.

Loves The News for Arcadia news

Although I live in Arcadia, I have subscribed to the Sierra Madre News for some years. This is the only paper that you can always count on for news of Arcadia people and Arcadia events.

After reading the local news of Sierra Madre, I can always turn to the pages entitled Arcadia Happenings. Jo Ann Scott really covers the organizations and events very well. Her new column, Arcadia Scene, is local news we have been missing for a long time. I read that column with great interest and do hope Jo Ann will continue.

'Irresponsible depiction' of SMPD

This letter was sent to Luis Zaragoza, Managing Editor of the Star-News, with a copy to Sierra Madre News. Ed.

The report appearing in the September 20, 1993 edition Pasadena Star News presented an erroneous and irresponsible depiction of the Sierra Madre Police Chief and the Department. You likened Sierra Madre's Chief of Police position to that of the Maytag repairman, implying that effective law enforcement and crime prevention can be achieved effortlessly. Those of us dedicated to keeping Sierra Madre among California's safest communities find this reference demeaning and illogical. The safety of the inhabitants and visitors of any community, at a time in our history when violent, senseless crime has become commonplace, is not the result of happenstance. Rather we believe in our case it is the result of devoted law enforcement professionals working cohesively under the leadership of an aggressive and ambitious Police Chief and the support of a community determined to maintain our reputation as one of Los Angeles' safest cities.

Prolonged economic decline and state bureaucratic inertia combine to deplete already limited resources from cities and counties—thus intensifying the challenge of providing safe neighborhoods for our children. Such a time is surely a prescription for innovation and transformation. Sierra Madre embraces this opportunity for change. Police officers and other local government officials personifying the caretaker model implied by your Maytag repairman analogy soon find themselves ill-suited for contemporary public service. Implying that such an individual would be an acceptable Police Chief is offensive to the Sierra Madre Police Department, employees of the city, and the community.

Gun fun?

Whenever someone mentions gun control, the National Rifle Association throws up its hands in pious horror and bleats about not interfering with personal freedom.

Do they mean freedom to kill people?

Out and About

By Dick Rogers

Well, the Out and About is about out. After reading the results of the 1st annual Sierra Madre News reader opinion survey, it's time for the old gumbah to move on. Hell, I didn't even beat out the fire or police blotters.

It's time for some new talent to try and breath some life into the old paper. The talent is out there...give it a shot.

Hasta lumbaggo (common spelling) and buena suerte.

We regret having to say "farewell" to Dick because we have enjoyed his column so much. Thank you, Dick.

Henry Bettler's store

By Harry Martin

when I came downstairs on a frigid morning to the warm, cozy kitchen where Mama would have a full skillet of the sausage beside a griddle where enormous buckwheat cakes were bubbling. Once a week, written with a mixture of chalk and water was a notice on the store windows that hot bologna was ready. The customer bought it directly from the steamer...a large, horseshoe-shaped link, 15 cents. Two smaller links were 25 cents. We had no electricity until 1913 and how all this work was accomplished is still a mystery.

Mr. Miller worked at least a 10-hour day, and on Saturday nights, the busiest of the week, he worked even more. Saturday night was the night villagers did their shopping, along with visiting, and farmers came to town and their horses to the hitching railing in front of the store. Once a month people paid their charge accounts and received a small, striped paper sack of candy. It was an exciting time for small fry.

Mr. Bettler maintained a delivery service which would certainly be considered unique now. He had a small, high-wheeled cart, and mounted on a frame was a wooden box with a hinged lid on top. Underneath was a small platform on which the driver stood. The cart was powered by a spotted pony, driven at a sharp trot, usually by one of the town teenagers. All one needed to do was call the store and in a few minutes there was a knock at the back door. In the daily grind of never-ending work, Mr. Miller was never too busy to do something kind. I often showed up at the store, with my faithful Shep at my side. Shep's eyes lighted up and his head was cocked sideways when he saw Mr. Miller reach for the bonebox.

Mayor Clem Bartolai

Small town politics can appear less complicated to the unseasoned eye, and yet in reality, when viewed from the inside can be more complex than that of larger cities. This may in part be due to the insulation of big city staffs and numerous departments that come between constituents and their representatives. It serves to defuse the negative aspects of those events that in short order can become explosive issues in the small town.

I think I am safe in saying that recent political events and the attendant revelations that surfaced in our community would be "peanuts" in larger metropolitan areas. This is not to detract from their importance or the necessity to fix the problems. I simply want to put it in the proper perspective.

We as a community have been especially fortunate that part of what we refer to as our city's "unique identity" includes an ingredient called "family." Sierra Madre, due to its size and physical makeup, is more family by nature than other cities that lack the closeness we enjoy.

So where does this lead us and what can one deduce from the anology of Sierra Madre as a family? Very basically, it is my opinion that it will take a "family" attitude on the part of every concerned resident of our great little town to solve our immediate problems and assist in the resolution of future issues. In other words, to start a healing process.

To start with, let's declare a moratorium (not permanent, of course) on criticism of our community. Community encompasses many areas. Look at it this way. Is the complaint really important in the greater context of things or is it petty? Is it constructive criti-

Letters from home

You probably read recently about Gas City, Indiana, where folks prepared to celebrate the city's centennial by opening a time capsule buried 50 years ago on the city hall grounds.

But after digging up most of the grounds, they couldn't find the capsule.

It's probably just as well.

They did the same thing over at Rabbit Ridge in 1942. But they buried the waterproof box smack in front of the statue of local hero Colonel Kermit Ridge, the original settler.

The historical society had gathered the usual tales of wonder and delight for their capsule, and there were lots of pictures and interesting trivia, but, alas, the enterprising newspaper editor had talked the committee into including several copies of his weekly paper. If those papers were read avidly at the time, they were devoured in 1992.

This was double-dip good stuff, with Harriet Hicks gossip columns and the editor's unrelenting investigative reporting. What a treasure trove of juicy stuff, of who did what to whom and why, who was in court, arrest records, tax delinquencies.

There was testimony from a couple divorce cases, one being responsible for revival of a long-dead feud between our Martins and McCoys. Why didn't Betty Rogers (now social queen Grandmother Gruber) finish college?

There were stories of legendary local athletes who played hard both on and off the field.

That's why I say, there is some history that just shouldn't be remembered.

In a town where most families go back several generations, there are facts that ought to be buried forever.

Police Blotter

Nothing significant happened on this day.

Wednesday, Sept. 22:

Thursday, Sept. 23:

Friday, Sept. 24:

A rollaway parked vehicle was implicated in an accident in the 300 block of Mariposa.

Saturday, Sept. 25:

Chamber hosts Tailgate party

A tailgate party featuring prizes, an auction, and "fun" family films is planned for the evening of Saturday, October 9, in the parking lot between Mariposa Avenue and Sierra Madre Blvd, adjacent to Sanwa Bank. The festivities begin at 6 p.m., and tailgaters are encouraged to bring dinner, beverage and folding chairs.

Dubbed the "Mariposa Tailgate Film Festive (For Discerning Minds!)," the event will bring the community together for a relaxed Saturday evening together. A key feature of the evening will be the auction of the murals seen around town.

Several short and highly enjoyable films are promised - one intended primarily for the kids and two for everyone to enjoy (it's rumored that one will feature Winnie-the-Pooh and the others will feature greats as Laurel and Hardy and W.C. Fields!).

There are prizes to be awarded during the drawing - a weekend for two in Laughlin, Nevada, and other prizes donated by local merchants and residents. There will also be a 50-50 drawing and two special prizes, one for the best display of purple, and one for the largest dining group.

There is no charge for the event, so come one, come all to this delightful annual picnic and film festival!

Next Saturday, Oct. 2, is clean-up day in downtown Sierra Madre with the "First Annual Downtown Clean-Up Day" scheduled from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. The meeting place is Kersting Court.

Sierra Madre Main Street Chamber of Commerce sponsors this event to give the city a "fresh clean look, enhancing the appeal of the commercial district and providing shopping and walking environment."

Short-term goal for Oct. 2 is to clean and sweep streets and sidewalks, rake the sidewalks, pick up litter on streets and sidewalks and weed sidewalk cracks and landscaping.

Long-term goals are for monthly maintenance by designated groups for designated streets and corners, and adoption of a "Keep a Street Clean Program."

'Entertainment' books sold by Kiwanis; offer discount dining

By Hank Lansberg
Kiwanis Club of Sierra Madre

The Kiwanis Club of Sierra Madre is offering "Entertainment" discount coupon books again this year for the foothill communities. Each Entertainment book contains hundreds of "2-for-the-price-of-1" coupons that are good at area restaurants, theaters, hotels, amusement parks and other fun places. The Entertainment coupon books are being sold by the Kiwanis Club as a fund-raiser.

Most coupons in the Entertainment book are "twofers," meaning that the bearer gets two meals (or admissions, etc.) for the price of one. Some coupons are simply cash discounts off of the regular price. In either case, using the book just a few times is more than enough to pay its cost of $38.

For 1994, the books have added discount coupons for several department stores, as well as "single diner" arrangements that allow a "twofer" coupon to be used for a discount when dining alone.

Some of the finer area restaurants that have coupons in the Entertainment book include: Chez Sateau, Baby Joe's, Amedeo's Italian Fisherman, Dino's Italian Inn, Fu Shing, Kabuki Japanese Restaurant, The Peppermill, and Kuala Lumpur. Some "casual dining" restaurants include: The Good Earth, Charleyville Cafe, Mijares, Shakers, I-HOP, and Masa Japanese restaurants.

The Entertainment book also includes discount coupons for the Hollywood Bowl, Pasadena Playhouse, Greek Theatre, SGV Light Opera, Caltech and numerous other venues. There are also coupons for sporting events at Santa Anita Park, Anaheim Stadium, Hollywood Park and others.

Entertainment books are available at Sanwa Bank and Bank of America in Sierra Madre.

"The Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club is happy to offer area residents this opportunity to save money on dining and entertainment, while also raising money to fund the Kiwanis Club's community service programs," said President Mike Delgatto, owner of Pantorium Cleaners.

cism and is it of such importance that it required immediate action? If not then I respectfully ask that it be set aside awhile until we get beyond the major issues.

Let's try to emphasize the positive qualities of the town we live in. They certainly outweigh the negatives, and I think there would be agreement that we don't live in a utopian city, but Sierra Madre is far better than most. Let's search out ways to individually become a positive influence and driving force in moving the city forward. There will be numerous ways to do this in the months ahead. Finally, let's use the many resources at our disposal to seek answers and solutions to problems before coming to the City Council and making it a major issue. We are here to be representative and I do not mean to imply that I am suggesting the Council abdicate its responsibility to the public. My experience has shown that many complaints that come before the Council were never addressed to city staff or their departments.

We are at a distinct turning point in the governance of this community, the extent of which cannot be determined now but lends itself to much speculation when considering all the implications. Two extremely important positions, that of City Administrator and Police Chief, remain to be filled. Their influence on the operations and well being of our town cannot be overemphasized. The Council will be moving forward quickly but also with caution to exercise care so that the best results are achieved.

With the approval of the City Council, I will appoint an Ad Hoc Finance Committee to review the auditor's management letters and to oversee the implementation of the recommendations in the auditor's latest report, especially as it relates to the most recent problems. Furthermore, they will be expected to work with staff to improve the budget presentation format to achieve an easily understood document. Any direction they give the Council will be discussed and acted upon quickly.

Also with concurrence of the City Council, I want to appoint an Ad Hoc Revenue Resource Committee specifically assigned to develop in cooperation with staff new long term revenues that will be available to the city for its operations. We know that current circumstances as well as potential actions by the State will further erode our financial base, and if not dealt with immediately could very well paralyze many city operations.

Families experience more acutely the hurts that take place and the losses they suffer. Although there have been some bitter pills to swallow, I would contend that with the right attitude a healing can begin, and positive results will follow that will show a stronger and better family that we know as Sierra Madre.

MOVIE REVIEW

To See, Or Not To See

ASHLEIGH KATZ

INTO THE WEST
Gabriel Byrne, Ciaran Fitzgerald, Ruaidhri Conroy, Ellen Barkin

See! Boy meets horse, boy loses horse, boy gets horse back—or does he? An ex-gypsy Irishman, played by Byrne, lives in Squallor, Ireland, with his two young sons. He loves them, but is ignorant of parental responsibility (he smokes cigarettes while his youngest son is having an asthma attack) and is too distraught over his wife's death years ago to be anything to anyone anyway. Along comes a beautiful, high-minded horse to the rescue, and it's Heigh-ho, Silver, awaaayyy! There is a delicious candy filling, but you have to scrape off some of the lint—like the extraneous villains, who are a bore and a lousy excuse for the film's touch of violence. Byrne is fine, Barkin is decent, but little more than a glorified extra. Here's the candy: young Fitzgerald is a treasure! His relationship with the horse is too cool and well worth the wade through a pat formula.

Group assists in raising money for pool maintenance

It's a far cry from the spring-fed pool in the canyon in earlier years where kids swung from the giant tree limb over the icy pool to splash with other kids in their Sierra Madre pool. In those days financing was easy. In these days, the sophisticated heated pool located just behind the Recreation Center in Sirra Vista Park costs much more money, particularly in lean years such as Sierra Madre has been facing.

That is why a community-wide campaign has been launched by a group calling themselves "Friends of the Sierra Madre Pool." The group recommends a two-month closure of the pool rather than the four-month closure which had been suggested by the City Council in its money-saving budget. The "Friends" would like the closure from Nov. 20 to Jan. 22, 1994, instead of November through February. This would save the city $6772, they say.

An alternative, according to the committee, would be from Nov. 20 - Feb. 19, reflecting a savings of $11,437 to the city.

The group met Monday evening in preparation for their presentation to the City Council Tuesday evening to firm up plans to file for a nonprofit status much like that of Friends of Sierra Madre Library.

How do they plan to effect these savings? By eliminating the recreation supervisor's salary from the pool budget, saving $12,906; by using cheaper chemicals; by donations; and with scheduling modifications. They say this would save $22,033.

"This will be an ongoing group. We plan to raise thousands of dollars," said Grace Thompson, co-chair with Tom Canterbury, Monday evening.

They have outlined such cost-saving alternatives as increasing user fees, greater use of volunteer assistance and fund-raising, of course.

A few of the ways they plan to acquire donations is through placing "Pennies for the Pool" cans throughout the community, through T-shirt sales and through money received from a donation campaign in the community, civic organizations and through the La Salle Booster Club which has already given them $250. La Salle High School uses the local pool.

Toni Moran represents the Parks and Recreation Commission on this committee.

Other officers include Judith Baker, treasurer, and Donna Day as secretary. Jennie Jacobsen-Huse serves as liaison.

This action results from an overall reduction of $34,039, which amounts to 8.7 percent reduction, in the city recreation budget, a cost-saving necessary in the 1993-1994 budget proposd by the City Council on July 13 this year. This is necessary, in part, because of the loss of $202,498 in property taxes to the state of California.

This group also plans to submit grant proposals to the Jameson Foundation, ARCO Foundation, the Amateur Athletic Foundation.

You'll be hearing more from them.

Area Jews, Arabs respond to peace agreement with anxious optimism, hopefulness, caution

With the signing of the historic peace agreement between Yasir Arafat and Yitzak Rabin, opening up genuine friendship in the Mideast, The News interviewed area people of Jewish and Arabic backgrounds. All of them fielded our questions cheerfully but most of them, although they are hopeful, are also taking a "wait and see" attitude. The interviews follow:

Suhail Nasir, vice president of the Palestine Children's Relief Fund, said, "I believe this peace is good even if it just saves the leg of one Palestinian child. However, I am still sorting a rush of conflicting emotions regarding this new peace plan. I worry that my people were pressured into an unfair deal and that Israel had the upper hand in the negotiations because the Palestinians are suffering economically. Even so, I still back the accord and hope the best for the future."

The Palestine Children's Relief Fund helps house and raise money for children injured in the fighting. The children are treated in the United States.

John Golper, attorney, said, "It lends optimism because it ends years of conflict, but it's a tempered optimism because you still have radical right Israelies and radical Muslims who could jeopardize the whole peace. The real fear is what radical Muslims will do if Arafat is assassinated. In the meantime, Israel has given back part of the West Bank. I feel cautious optimism."

Hala Hazzan, physical therapist who has lived in Glendale for 16 years, said, "I think this treaty is a great start, not only for the Palestinians but indeed for the whole world. I think both the Palestinians as well as the Jews have and should have had to compromise in order to achieve this peace."

Doris Horwith, owner of a publishing company, explained her views succinctly, "I feel pretty good about it. I have a wait and see attitude...it's a long way between signing it and living it. If it works, great."

Rosette Selbak, bookkeeper at The News, said, "First of all, I am very proud to be a Palestinian American. Over the years I was hoping to witness this joyous day. It is a joy to tell the world who recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization today that we used to have a country and a flag. I watched the signing ceremony with tears in my eyes. This is a step to put bitterness, hard feelings and suffering behind us and to look for a better future, where Israelies and Palestinians must solve their problems and try to heal the wounds of the past. I am looking to a lasting peace in that area and a day when the Israelies return the rest of the West Bank to establish a Palestinian state. And as our Lord Jesus Christ said, 'Blessed are the peace makers.'"

Cathy Ryne, children's librarian at Sierra Madre Library, answered, "I'm hopeful. It would be wonderful if it could happen. It's going to be difficult because they've been at war all of their lives. To go from the mentality of going to war to peace it's going to be a long transitional period. It would be wonderful if other countries took this as a beginning and other countries not at peace took their lead."

Ryne has family in Israel. Her cousin is a journalist in Tel Aviv and feels very "excited, emotional and scared."

Auxiliary luncheon hails holiday time

By Phyllis Chapman

The holiday season is fast approaching. Are you ready? We are! So says the auxiliary of the Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility as they present their Annual Luncheon and Fashion Show this Saturday, Oct. 2, 11:30 a.m., at Methodist Church Hartzell Hall. The Hall is behind the church at the corner of Sierra Madre Blvd. and Michillinda, with an ample parking lot entered from Michillinda.

The auxiliary invites you to join them as they theme this special event "Stepping Into the Holidays with the Joy of Giving." Fashions will be presented by Draper's and Damon's of Pasadena, providing you a variety of early choices for clothes to wear now and through holiday time. The company has been in business since 1927 with corporate offices in Costa Mesa. Their total of 24 stores are located in California, Arizona and Nevada. They are known for their quality, "feel-good-in" clothes at moderate prices.

Stepping out in the variety of beautiful fashions will be Auxiliary models: Phyllis Harris, auxiliary president; Olive Buchan, Celeste McCreary, and Marjorie Peterson, board members; Lisa Fowler, PUSD school board member and a past Sierra Madre Mayor; Sharon Kurtz, administrator of the Skilled Nursing Facility; and Katie Orth and Lorayne Russman, co-chairs of the affair.

Greeting the eye of those attending will be gaily decorated tables with topiaries as centerpieces. Luncheon fare, for which this party is well-known, is an abundance of delicious salads. Burke Steed, classical guitarist, will play background music as the show progresses.

Tickets are $12 each and may be purchased by calling 355-8124 or 355-5057, and may also be purchased at the door on Saturday. Proceeds from this, the auxiliary's main annual fundraiser, go to support the activity program at the Facility. With its motto of "We Care," funds will also be used to improve the quality of life for the residents. The present project is to provide TVs for all of the Facility's rooms.

GRAB A PARTNER AND LET'S SWING — It's Country Western Hoe-Down time on Saturday, Oct. 16 on the grounds of Alverno High School for the Foothill Community Creative Arts Group members and friends. Shown preparing to learn another Western step are Mary aand Dick Young and Jill and Peter Boli and their happy dog. Mary is president of CAG.

Methodists' Fall Festival to be 'Under the Big Top'

"Under The Big Top" is the theme for this year's Fall festival at Church of the Good Shepherd (United Methodist) in Arcadia. The annual fundraiser, which has a reputation for attracting families from throughout nearby communities, will run Saturday, Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Attractions will include boutiques, a quilt show, children's entertainment, and several food stations.

A giant White Elephant Sale will offer "previously owned" bargains, while boutiques will display holiday decorations and other handicrafts made by church members. For the younger set, a children's Book Fair will be held.

Dozens of quilts, both historical and newly-made, will be draped over sanctuary pews in the Quilt Show. Anecdotal and descriptive information is attached to each. Some are offered to the public at the Quilt Sale.

Both the Fun Zone and Tournament Zone will be under the Big Top. Children can enjoy a moon bounce, ferris wheel and many carnival games. With a cake walk, candy counting, coloring contest, visor painting, cookie decorating, sand painting, button-making and face painting, youngsters will find plenty to occupy them.

At 10 a.m., Nancy Mitchell and her Minikin Puppet Productions with its "Barnum and Baloney" sideshow will present zany acts which combine ventriliquism, hand puppets and marionettes. At 11 a.m., Yoyo The Magical Clown will entertain.

Exotic birds which have appeared in films and on television will be on hand under the church portico with owner-trainer Jack Kelly. Kelly will invite the audience to ask questions about his birds, and the care of exotic birds. The birds will perform tricks and pose for photos.

Two other photo-ops will add to the fun: Sparky the Dog posing with children, and people posing in large wooden cutouts of circus animals and performers.

Musical interludes will be when the Chancel Choir presents showtunes at 11:45 a.m., and with karaoke sing-a-longs at 12:45 p.m.

Breakfast rolls and coffee will launch the day for early shoppers. By 11 a.m., church groups will sell both Chinese and Mexican lunches, hot dogs, hamburgers and desserts. Iced tea, lemonade, ice cream, nachos, pepperbellies

Fall Festival co-chairs for the second year are Tina Carey and Chris Aguilar. For more information, call the church office, 447-2181, weekdays. Church of The Good Shepherd is at 400 W. Duarte Road, Arcadia.

Worst battle after war

One of the greatest battles of the War of 1812 occurred after the war was over. The Americans and British signed a peace treaty in December, 1814, but the news didn't reach the U.S. until after the Battle of New Orleans was fought in January of 1815.

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

People who are not familiar with theater practice sometimes are not aware of just how important the director is to the production. The actors learn their lines, the script tells them what to do, what does the director do? Manage traffic?

Well, yes, but there is much more creativity involved then that. Theater is a visual art. The director paints a picture, appropriate to the play, using the cast, the costumes and the set to interest the audience, help the plot advance and reveal the personalities of the characters and the meaning of the play. He or she helps the actors to select, out of many possible actions or expressions, the ones which are most consistent with the director's understanding of what the play is really about.

But doesn't the playwright tell them what to do? Some do. G. B. Shaw goes into great detail. But most playwrights recognize that the play will change with the personalities and skills of the actors, the place where the play is performed, the size and temperament and tastes of the audience, and many other variables. Not to mention the intuitions, skills and tastes of the director.

One reason actors and directors like to do Shakespeare is that he provides only the most basic stage directions: "Enters," "They fight," "Dies," etc. There was no need for more since Shakespeare probably directed the plays himself and could tell the actors what he wanted. It left subsequent directors free to develop their own ideas, and what an amazing series of variations has resulted!

But aside from telling the story, a director invents "business." Every field of interest has its own vocabulary. An "apron," in theatrical terms, is not a garment, it is a part of the stage, and stage "business" is the myriad of little activities that keep actors busily in character instead of just standing there talking. Some of it helps to tell the story, but a lot of it is simply activity to help the situation seem natural. Many plays have long passages of exposition, things that the audience needs to know that happened before the play starts, or offstage, and these things can be said while setting a table, or knitting, or doing exercises or whatever. Cigarettes provide business, and pipes even more. Serving drinks or having tea or just roaming around a detailed set looking at bric-a-brac can be "business."

The best "business" can emphasize some aspect of character. In "The Foreigner," now at the Pasadena Playhouse, the shy hero, in necessary conversation with a friend, makes an expansive gesture, forgetting that he is holding a sugar bowl in that hand. The resultant clean-up not only lasts through the otherwise static conversation, but tells us something about this seemingly inept man.

No actor really wants to just stand around, and actors invent "business" took but the director has final say as to its suitability. The theater is not a democracy, and while actors are on display and get the applause, the final decisions on good, bad or tasteful belong to the director. If you really enjoyed a show, applaud the actors but congratulate the director.

Of course, this works both ways.

Don't forget a new and different "Phantom" opens this weekend at the San Gabriel Valley Civic Light Opera in the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium, while Miss Marple pursues her villains at the Sierra Madre Playhouse and "The Foreigner" delights the imagination at the Pasadena Playhouse.

Oh, and the Duarte Center Theater is doing "Man of La Mancha." It's a good theater weekend.

Around the yard with Keith LoSasso

By Caryn Coulter

Up in the Canyon lives a man who can turn sandy Sierra Madre soil into a rich elixi for trees, bushes, front lawns, and perennial exo-tica. Keith LoSasso, owner of Keith's Gardening Service, says he loves building the beauty and longevity of Sierra Madre gardens, and would enjoy working here and here, exclusively.

"I like Sierra Madre," he said. "I'd rather do all my accounts here."

With nine years experience, five of which have been in Sierra Madre, LoSasso covers the gamut of gardening activity: basic maintenance, fertilizers, sprinkling, planters, new lawns, all all other gardening chores. He also works with outside contractors such as lighting specialists in developing and implementing landscape concepts when the opportunity arises.

Born and reared in Sierra Madre, LoSasso said his parents still live here. He employs two assistants and is a longtime patron of the Sierra Madre News, having learned the gardening business by assisting a landscaper friend. LoSasso now serves the cities of Monrovia, Alhambra, South Pasadena, Arcadia, Pasadena and Altadena, in addition to Sierra Madre.

The News thanks Keith's Gardening Service for its support, and looks forward to ongoing publicity for this versatile enterprise.

Ask Dr. Tami . . .

Dear Dr. Tami,

I have a cocker spaniel and a bassett hound. I have heard that these breeds are more prone to develop glaucoma. Is this true and how will I know if they develop it?

Yes, There is a higher incidence of glaucoma in cockers and basset hounds. Glaucoma occurs when the pressure within the eye becomes elevated.

This can occur if the drainage angle becomes occluded not allowing the aqueous fluid to drain properly. Causes of drainage angle occlusion include inflammation, neoplasma, luxated lens, etc. The most common cause of glaucoma in the basset and cocker spaniel is goniodysgenesis - a maldeveloped drainage, angle. This is a congenital problem. One of the first signs of glaucoma is a red and painful eye. Blinking and tearing of the eye and rubbing the eye are all signs of pain. The pupil is often dilated and does not constrict when exposed to light. Blindness can occur if the pressure is not reduced within twenty four hours. It is important if you suspect glaucoma that you see your veterinarian as soon as possible for immediate treatment.

This pet's for you . . .

There's a lot of love in this face - no? My name is Theresa and I'm a 2-year old Chihuahua/terrier mix looking for a good home. I'm sweet and friendly, and deserve to be in a kind and loving home. My friends here at the Humane Society love me so much, they'll even spay me beofe I leave so I can be the best friend you ever had. Please visit me at 361 S. Raymond, Pasadena. Standing alone is a test of character God uses on His candidates for promotion. When God is ready to promote you, no person, no group, no superior and no human network can stand in God's way, and all true promotion comes from God. But God well test you before He promotes you—count on it! Why does God test us in this area before He will promote us? Four reasons:

1. God wants pioneers, people who are willing to go where none have gone before. The world says, "Take it easy," but God says "Take a risk." Charles Kettering has wisely observed that no one ever stubbed their toe while standing still.
2. God wants to show us that He works through people. This is something that my brother Jim Lyles shared with me. He said, "When I pray, I pray as if everything depended on God, and when I work, I work as if everything depended on me."
3. God wants us to rely on Him and Him alone. In other words, when we stand alone, we do not really stand alone—we stand with God at our side.
4. God wants convicted, committed leaders who will go against the tide and stand for truth no matter what, and come what may. We are not merely called to stand—we are called to stand for something.

Worship with us this Sunday and find a friend!

Child care is available all three hours.

St. Rita's

The reading for Sunday, Oct. 3, includes Matt. 21:33-43, known as the Parable of the Tenants. It is the second of three parables that Jesus addresses to the chief priests of the Temple and the elders of the people.

The Parable of the Tenants concerns the harsh treatment given to Jesus and God's earlier messengers—the prophets. Many allegorical elements are present in this sotry: Israel in the vineyard; Israel's leaders are the tenant farmers; God is the landowner; the prophets are the earlier messengers; and Jesus is the son and the cornerstone.

Matthew's parable has a clear meaning. It places the suffering and death of Jesus in line with the nasty treatment historically given to God's messengers by those in charge. The apostle also contends that the tenant farmers—the leadership of Israel—must be replaced because they do not recognize the authority of God, his prophets and his Son. Matthew does not mean that the vineyard—Israel—should be replaced; only the corrupt and willfully blind chief priests and elders should be ousted. In this case, their blindness leads them to spurn both God's Anointed and God's Kingdom.

Confirmation "Year 1" and "Year 2" will meet Oct. 10, 9 a.m. in Pac Hall. This first class is for everyone in the Confirmation Program.

A Youth-Children's Choir will be forming this school year. Practices will be scheduled after school Friday afternoon in the church from 2:40-3:30 beginning Oct. 1. For more information call Mary Cronin, 585-8441.

Remember St. Rita Men's Club Oktoberfest Celebration on Sat., Oct. 16 in O'Malley Hall! Join us for a German dinner, draft beer and a live German band. Tickets are $10 per person. Proceeds go toward support of school and church functions. For more information call Bob Carsia at 306-1210 or Larry Davini at 355-8676.

Congregational

At Sierra Madre Congregational Church service times on Saturday are at 6:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m., on Oct. 2 and 3.

Pastor Anderson will be preaching from Luke 18:31-43 on "Comprehending The Death of Christ—Today." There is such a thing as "spiritual eyesight." There is also such a thing as "spiritual blindness." Jesus could see spiritually even though His disciples were often blind to the very things He told told them about. As Jesus continues to move closer and closer to Jerusalem, He tells His disciples again what is going to happen to Him when He gets there. But the disciples do not really "see" what He is telling them. Luke reminds us: "...they understood none of these things, and this saying was hidden from them, and they did not comprehend the things that were said."

Centuries later, there are still people who are blind to the spiritual reasons for which Christ died. Can you see the purpose of His death?

What Luke records as the next event in his Gospel account is worthy of note. It is the healing of a blind man for whom His disciples consider a nuisance. Are you blind to what God wants to do for you today? Cry out like the blind man and seek God's healing. He will open your eyes to see His purpose for you today.

We invite you to join us at our new Saturday Evening Celebration Service beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the main Sanctuary. The service is a less formal format with plenty of worship and the same great message as Sunday Morning.

This writer does an excellent job of covering local events. Jo Ann is often at the event in person to get first hand information.

I have been sending Jo Ann news of coming events for several organizations and never has she not printed the news item. This publicity has helped our attendance, and given necessary information about our events to the general public.

I would like to commend Jo Ann Scott for publicity well done, and I do hope her special column, Arcadia Scene, will continue.

Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church, 835 N. Hastings Ranch Dr. (at Sierra Madre Blvd.) will be celebrating Lutheran Women's Missionary League Sunday this week during the Worship Hour at 10:30 a.m. The theme of this year's celebration is "One Spirit—One Faith—One People." Using a special order of worship, the Rev. Rich Schinnerer will be preaching on "The Magic of Oneness."

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) is the women's auxiliary of the Lutheran Church–Missouri Synod. It's primary purpose is to spread the Good News of Jesus Christ throughout the world by assisting chosen mission projects of the Church. The financial support for this work is obtained through "mite boxes," small cardboard boxes into which coins and small amounts of money are placed by the members of the LWML. During the current biennium 13 projects totaling $1,140,000 are being sponsored. Included in the list are Circle of Life Lutheran Church, Cheyenne Reservation, Montana; English as a Second Language Coordinator, Russia; New Mission Work, Cote d'Ivoire; Lutheran Day Care Church Planting Initiative; and "Apple of His Eye—Los Angeles," a ministry to Jews in our area.

The Sunday Education Hour is held at 9:15 a.m. and features graded classes for children and an adult Bible study of the Letter of James, led by Pastor Schinnerer. Following the Worship there is a Fellowship Hour at 11:30.

This is the last week for gifts to Lutheran World Relief. The local church's Sewing Group has finished 21 quilts to be shipped to needy families and members of the church are gathering clothing and toilet articles.

Bethany

By Al Elby

Pastor Barney was asking the question, "Is There a Family In the House?' I will take the liberty of paraphrasing the echo on the TV program Family Feud, "Good Question." There are two treasures that are to be valued higher than any other that a person will experience in their lifetime, and that is your relationship with the Lord, and then followed by your relationship with your family. Proverbs 15:17 says, "Better a meal of vegetables where there is love than a fattened calf with hatred." It is a wise man who values these relationships, but unfortunately, all too many back-burner them for the pressures and draw of the material world. We react to that which places the greatest pressures upon us today, and don't consider that maybe the pressures of today are not all that important. Here again Scripture hits the nail on the head when it says, "Don't store up treasure on earth, where moth and rust destroy, and where thieves break in and steal."

It's these other relationships of God and family that are divinely centered and ordained. Jesus told us that the two greatest commandments are first, to love your God with all your heart, soul and might, and the second, to love your neighbor (your family is your closest neighbor) as yourself. If we could apply and live by these precepts, life would be ever so much simpler and sweet. The greatest pain you will ever ex-perience will be from the disruption of your relationship with your family. If we as individuals and also as a nation really took this to heart it would resolve many of the problems that are strangling us as a nation. Our answers don't lie in ourselves, but in the Lord, so to get the right answers we must lift our eyes heavenward and seek Him who loves us and wants the best for us all.

"Blest is that nation whose silent course of happiness furnishes nothing for history to say. This is what I ambition for my own country."

Thomas Jefferson

"Methods are habits of the mind and economies of the memory."

Heard on the street... opinions from local residents on issues of the times

By Ann Luke & Hank Landsberg

Continuing our biweekly series called "Heard on the Street," we took to the streets this week and asked the following question of five residents:

"What do you think about what's going on in the city of Sierra Madre these days?"

1. Sue Slight, owner, "Your Color" cosmetics

"I think that the city could use some reevaluation. There's been a lot of confusion about how the money under discussion was distributed...you might call it creative bookkeeping...but I think that (McRea) did the best he could with the people he was working with. It's just that the people who live and work here have needed a clearer idea of where the money was being spent.

"I do think that McRea deserved the compensation he got, after all his years of service to the city."

2. Ross Tyree, retired

"I think that the city's in deep trouble...no manager, no police chief...and I think that we'll have to pay more money for a city administrator and a police chief if we want to get the right people.

"I think that Jim McRea is one of the smartest guys we've ever had, and the city's going to wish we had him back.

"(I also think that this column, 'Heard on the Street,' is a good idea!)"

3. "Smokey the Bear" Clawson, retired

"I believe that McRea was a city manager who was good for our town for many reasons. He had an open-door policy; he was approachable. If there was negligence...well, I just don't think that there was.

"The only issue is, perhaps we weren't progressing far enough; I think that Sierra Madre has to build, grow, get more housing, more mercantile."

4. Marge Bradley, retired

"I hope that they get it all straightened out soon. It can't be that bad! I had no problems with Jim McRea as City Administrator. I think that we'll either get it sorted out now or not be a city anymore."

5. Grace O'Brien, business owner (exporter)

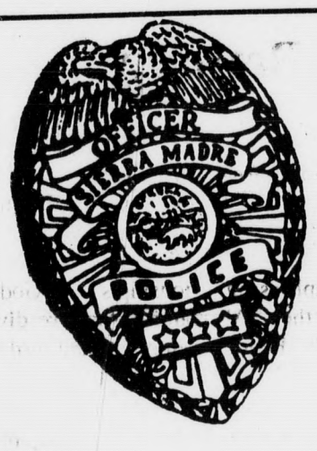

"From my perspective, everything seems fine. I've heard some complaints—people griping over coffee—but whatever problems there are, they're not impacting my life!"

In two weeks or so, we'll do another "Heard on the Street." Readers who have questions they'd like to submit for this column may send them to the News, or call 355-3324.

Know your officer

Joanne Walters

"I was born and raised here and I want to keep it safe and beautiful," is Joanne Walters' reply when asked why she chose law enforcement for a vocation.

Walters is code enforcement officer at Sierra Madre Police Department.

Since her graduation from Pasadena High School and college at Rio Hondo, Cal State L.A., and U.C. Irvine, she has been involved in several jobs around city hall.

Her first job, in 1979, was part-time with the Recreation Department. She helped out at city hall during vacation time. And in January of 1980, she joined the police department as cadet and dispatcher, the latter for eight years. She has been code enforcement officer since 1989.

There was a period from 1988 to 1990 when she was also a firefighter.

Walters is a reserve Police Officer and also fills in on the dispatch desk when necessary.

What, exactly, does her job entail? She makes sure that city municipal codes are complied with, she replied. Her "bible," the code book, includes everything from checking for business licenses, making sure that proper permits are pulled, checking parking on city streets and in city lots, checking to make sure that signs are on personal property and not on utility poles, to watching for proper positioning of garbage or rubbish recepticles. And several more.

"Normally, I get voluntary compliance. If, however, I don't, I have to research the case and may have to go to court. City codes are misdemeanors," she said.

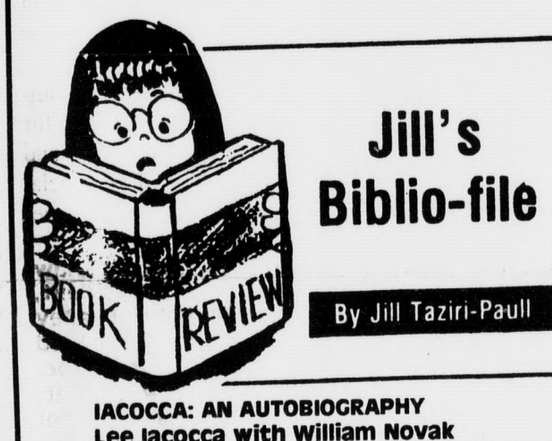

The work, she said, is fun because she's outside and around the village of Sierra Madre. She also enjoys working with people, and this is definitely a people-oriented job.

What is her primary goal? Pursuing a career in law enforcement. She would like to be a full-time police person. "A lieutenant, if possible."

Walters rides her Harley Davidson motorcycle for fun and enjoys attending movies and plays.

She has a big family and many of them live here. Her mother, Carmen, lives in Sierra Madre, as do her brothers, Jamie, Jay, and John.

Her father, Jim, lives in Cherry Valley, and a sister, Julie, is an escrow officer in Long Beach. Jamie is a medical consultant, Jay is a gardener and John is a fashion designer of Cherokee clothers. And Manuel and Juliette de la Torre are her aunt and uncle.

IACOCCA: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY
Lee Iacocca with William Novak

"All business operations can be reduced to three words: people, product and profits." As CEO of Chrysler, Lee Iacocca had the savvy to know which of those three successfully pulls off the other two. Without people pulling together, people who believed in and worked towards making quality products in order to drastically and dramatically increase profits in a short period of time, Chrysler would not have survived its precipitous downfall in 1979. By creating a team of executives, managers and laborers committed to working together with dealers, suppliers, bankers and government officials on a scale never before attempted, Iacocca led Chrysler out of sure bankruptcy and into fianancial stability. Chrysler's story is the pinnacle of an amazing phoenix's rise, chronicled in "Iacocca: An Autobiography" by Iacocca: An Autobiography" by Iacocca with William Novak.

Iacocca never takes credit for single-handedly pulling Chrysler oout of its disaster. but he provided the leadership that brought similar-minded people from all sorts of backgrounds to work harmoniously together in Chrysler's rebuilding. Iacocca learned good business sense (and just plain good common sense) as well as solid values, sensible judgement and familial love from his immigrant parents. Along with this exceptional background, Iacocca seemed destined to seek out the positive. When schoolmates taunted him with racial slurs for being Italian, Iacocca pointedly mentions how these incidents only strengthened and matured him, teaching him to be more tolerant of others.

Books Etc.

By Margaret Duran

When you visit the Sierra Madre Library in the afternoon, you will immediately see that school has definitely begun. Every seat is filled with students of all ages. They are reading, browsing, talking, studying, or just getting to know the library collection.

With the assignments of research papers, I thought that this would be the appropriate time to preview the new additions that will be coming to our reference section of the Children's Department this fall.

In the "International Wildlife Encyclopedia," you will find articies in this 25-volume set which cover environmental geographic, and scientific classifications of each species. Volume 1 contains an alphabetized Contents List of Animals. Volume 25 is comprised of the indexes; a list of the endangered species represented in "Wildlife;" a section on major wildlife reserves, parks and sanctuaries; a list of international zoos; and Periodical, Adult and Young Readers bibliographies. "Wildlife of the World," is a 13 volume set which presents the student with information about over 3900 species of vertebrate and invertebrate animals from around the world. Not only does it discuss their habitat and behavior but also the efforts made by people to protect them. Those students interested in learning more about artists would enjoy look through "Great Artists of the Western World." This 10-volume set introduces stu-dents to masters of western art, their major works and their lives and times. The painters chosen are representatives of the major recent periods of art history from the pre-renaissance and renaissance through the baroque, rococo, romantic, impressionistic and modern eras.

Please come to the Children's Department and browse through the reference section. You will find many more books that can help with a variety of reports.

Bounty of activity for Woman's Club

By Phyllis Chapman

The Sierra Madre Woman's Club began its 1994-94 year with their Annual Membership Tea in September, a lovely affair that proved a special beginning. For club meetings from now through December, Program Chair Martha Van De Verg has scheduled a variety of programs to pique interest and for enjoyment of the members.

During the morning portion of the Oct. 13 luncheon meeting guest speaker will be Sharon Kurtz, administrator of the Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility, who will share with the group her visions for the facility. Kurtz has been administrator since May. Recently surveyors from the Department of Health Services were at the Facility for two weeks making a very thorough inspection which resulted in high marks for SNF.

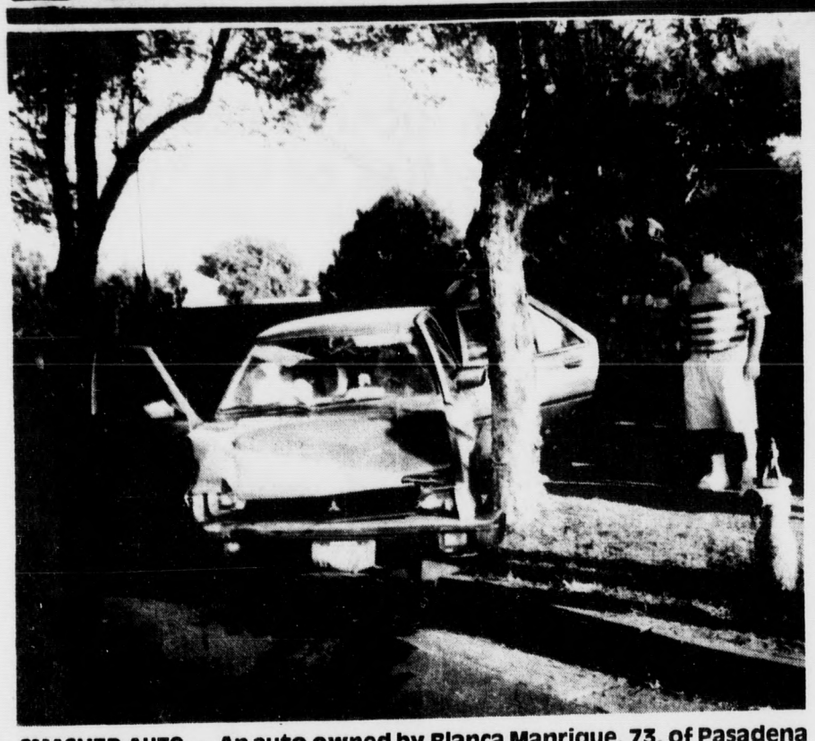

Following luncheon at this meeting a documentary film and slides about artist Norman Rockwell will be presented by Dean Demory. At the Oct. 27 Tea Meeting, beginning at 1:30 p.m., a lively session is anticipated as a well-known San Gabriel Valley barbershop group, the Major Chords Quartette, provide the entertainment.

The Nov. 8 luncheon meeting will also be the club's annual Indian Ingathering as they continue to give support to our native American Indians in the inner city. Dave Rambeau, who heads the Los Angeles Indian Center located on skid row, will speak on "Community Awareness of the Indian Population."

On Dec. 8, also a luncheon meeting, a special Christmans program is being planned. It will be presented by well-known concert pianist Robert Rios and dramatic artist Barbara Gillis.

Two other club activities have been set for the month of November. Arlene Decker, Ways and Means vice president and her committee, will have a benefit luncheon and fashion show in the clubhouse on Saturday, Nov. 13. Tickets at $15 each are available by calling 355-0338. Also, on Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 8 a.m, the community will be welcomed at the 19th Annual All-Faith Community Prayer Breakfast with the approaching holiday of Thanksgiving in mind.

Two serious auto accidents in one day

SMASHED AUTO — An auto owned by Blanca Manrique, 73, of Pasadena sustained major damage to the front after it plowed into an auto driven by Gayle Ward, 45, of Pasadena on the driver's side. The Manrique auto careened backward, ending up facing northwest on the south curbline of Montecito.

GOOD SAMARITAN — After the crash, Mrs. Manrique's little dog jumped out of the car and into gasoline that was spilling from both autos. The little Pekinese was quickly rescued by Diane Emerson of Sierra Madre who was at that corner when the crash happened. She held the dog until Mrs. Manrique's son picked it up.

TWO WOMEN INJURED IN FREAK ACCIDENT — Blanca Manrique, 73, of Pasadena, is carried by Sierra Madre EMTs and firefighters to the ambulance at Michillinda and Montecito after she hit an auto in the intersection of Valley View and Michillinda about 5:15 p.m. Monday. She was taken to Methodist Hospital, Arcadia.

AUTO CRUSHED ON DRIVER'S SIDE — Gayle Ward, 45, of Pasadena, sits in her auto before being taken out by Pasadena paramedics and transported to Huntington Hospital. She was traveling north when an auto driven by Blanca Manrique plowed into the driver's side of the Ward car. This auto ended up stradling the curb pointed southward.

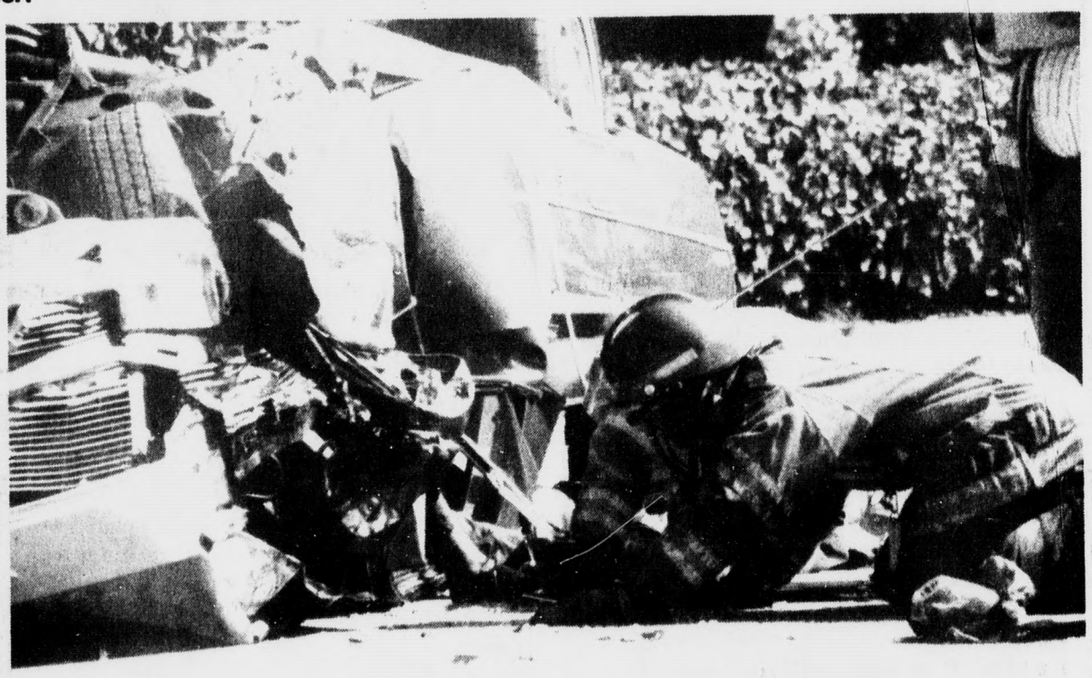

INTERPRETER, FIREFIGHTER — Debbie Dawahare, who works at Sierra Madre Congregational Church and lives in Pasadena, heard the car crash and ran out to see if she could help. Fortunately, she spoke Spanish, the only language Mrs. Manrique could speak, so she interpreted for the Sierra Madre Firefighters before they took Mrs. Manrique to Methodist Hospital in Arcadia for treatment. Shown with her is Paul Hagen, Sierra Madre city worker and volunteer firefighter.

Sierra Madre News Photos

DEVEREAUX IS OUT OF CRASH, SAFE — Firefighter Rich Snyder talks with Joan Devereaux of La Habra after she is carefully removed form her 1968 Cadillac that rolled on its top after hitting a tree. The auto was traveling northward on Sunnyside and the accident happened at 2:05 p.m. Monday. Also shown is Lee Sims, another firefighter. Devereaux was taken to Methodist Hospital, Arcadia, where it was discovered that she had a broken left wrist and hand, a broken right upper arm, and multiple bumps and bruises.

SNYDER FINDS WOMAN ALIVE AT CRASH SCENE — Joan Devereaux, 54, of La Habra was lucid when Firefighter Rich Snyder first arrived at the accident scene at about 2:05 p.m. Monday. Devereaux's auto, a 1968 Cadillac, was totaled in the accident after she hit a tree head-on and the car rolled over on its top, counter clockwise.

Miller's work exhibited downtown

Gurdon Miller, photographer living in Sierra Madre, will be featured at the Troy Cafe and Gallery in an exhibit of large format photographs called "Tension Between Planes." The exhibit runs from Oct. 3 through Nov. 5.

Miller has been photographing the built environment for 25 years. Originally trained as a painter, he applies the formal visual discipline of Abstract Expressionism to creating richly textured photographs of the urban environment. Seven years ago he began making large format black and white photographs with a 4 x 5 monorail camera.

The environment as modified by man has been his driving purpose for some time and the photographs on exhibit sometimes reveal the more devastating effects man has had. Empty streets, warehouses, dilapidated buildings all make an appearance in Miller's ground glass.

A reception for the artist will be held on Sunday, Oct. 3, from 5 to 9 p.m.

Troy Cafe and Gallery is located at 418 East First Street between Central and Alameda in downtown Los Angeles.

Miller is also a planning commissioner in Sierra Madre.

City Council to discuss finances, investigate status of chief

Sierra Madre City Council adjourned Tuesday evening to Monday, Oct. 4, at 6 a.m., then will meet the next day, Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 5:30 p.m. During the former meeting they will discuss the two ad hoc committees Mayor Clem Bartolai has outlined, one a revenue source committee, and the other, a finance committee, both to assist city staff in implementing some of the suggestions recently outlined by the city's accountants, Edwards, Eichel and Bervanek.

At the Oct. 5 meeting, the council will discuss the police department operations status report to be presented by Interim Police Chief John Thurman and have a finance study session with Finance Director David Cain and Acting City Administrator Sean Joyce.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 28, the council set a business license fee of 1 percent of the gross sales for Friends of the Library Art Fair entrants. Mayor Bartolai also asked the Friends to come back with a proposal of what fee to charge food vendors from inside and outside Sierra Madre, all of whom will set up their food stands at the fair.

The library has been awarded a Library Services and Construction Act Title I grant for STAR, Services Toward Adapted Reading. The grant will provide coordination and improvement of services for people with visual impairments. The federal grant will provide $31,893 for staff, library materials, operating expenses and equipment.

Friends of the Sierra Madre Library will contribute $6500 toward audio and large print materials; the Senior Club has donated $50, Civic Club, $350, and the city will provide $5389 for library assistants. The STAR project cost is $43,832.

Catriona Shafer is part-time library assistant for STAR and will be paid from federal funds. She announced Tuesday evening that she is planning a reception for activity directors and current users the first week of November.

In other action, the anti-graffiti ordinance, No. 1102, was read for the first time by title only and introduced.

A Mayor's Task Force will soon be appointed to conduct an evaluation of Sierra Madre's local transportation program. The first person appointed to that committee Tuesday evening was Karl Teigler.

The total cost of the transportation program last year was $172,480; however, Sierra Madre's 1993-94 allocation on country sales tax amounted to $108,903. That leaves a $63,577 shortfall which must be made up, Mayor Bartolai pointed out. The Task Force will address that problem, also.

This program was approved with a Feb. 15 cap for recommendations of the Task Force.

ARCADIA SCENE
by JoAnn Scott

Katie Butler Morrelli was honored at a recent baby shower and brunch hosted by Jan Moscaret and Sue Nevin. Katie, a member of the Arcadia High School Class of 1983, is now living in Portland, Oregon with her husband, Mike. She came down for the shower but will miss her 10-year high school reunion, which is this weekend at the Manhattan Beach Radisson. (The doctor said no).

Among those attending the shower held at the Moscaret home were the grandmother-to-be, Sally Butler, and Alice Brodhead, Dianne Archibald, Bonnie DeWitt, Shirley Forden, Frances Tippy, Sue White Gorman (who was in Katie's high school class), Patti Dolan, Ondina Nunez, Bingo Roncelli, Eleanor Powell, Darlene Bowen, Carole Lincoln, Martha Russell, Patti Thinger and Carol McGuire, who had just returned from a trip to the country's largest shopping center, the Mall of the Americas in Minneapolis.

Katie and Mike are expecting their first child next month.

My daughter, Kim, flew out from New York to help me give a bridal shower on Sunday for my niece, Camryn Muth, who will marry Paul Evans of Newport Beach on Oct. 16. Camryn, who is the daughter of my sister-in-law, Merlyn, was born at Arcadia Methodist Hospital but grew up in Newport.

Arcadians who attended the shower were Betsy Chrismas, Lillian Cederquist, Jeanine Thomas, Darlene Bowen and the bride-to-be's grandmother, Muriel Scott. Papa Scotty even got to see his granddaughter open gifts.

Margery Hudson

Margery Hudson recently celebrated her 102nd birthday at the Arcadia home of her daughter, Ruth Thompson, where she has made her home for the past 20 years.

Margery's niece, Virginia Finger, came from Beresford, South Dakota to help in the celebration. Other guests attending the birthday luncheon were Virginia Doring, Norine Rue, Mary E. Hansen, Jane Crawshaw, Mary Jo Crawshaw, Dorothy Doring, Ruth Shumway, Edith Stephenson, Janet Swanson, Carol Butler, Frances Bown, Bonnie Brassfield and Elsie Hetherington. The lovely centenarian received 50 cards from all around the county as well as a dozen pink roses from Esther and John Govorchin.

Another suggestion for the name of this column came all the way from Lake Arrowhead, where former Arcadian Fay Anderson is now living. She suggested "It's About Arcadia" or use ARCADIA as an acronym..."A" could be for academia, achieving or athletics; "R" for responsible..."I", imaginative or innovative.

I enjoyed talking to Fay, a former anesthesiologist at Methodist Hospital, who filled me in on her being volunteer coordinator for Meals on Wheels and on all of her children. We go way back, as one of her girls was in my Girl Scout troop at Highland Oaks Elementary School...years ago.

An Arcadian who reads The Sierra Madre News told me recently that he enjoyed this "Scene," even if he didn't know anyone whose name appeared in the column. I'd like to write about people you know, so please drop me a line (9 Kersting Court, Sierra Madre, CA 91024) or give me a call (355-0845) to tell me about what you and your friends are doing on the "Arcadia Scene."

New Arboretum orientation to begin Oct. 5

"Discover the Arboretum," a comprehensive six-week orientation for new and prospective volunteers, will begin Tuesday, Oct. 5, 9 a.m., in the lecture hall at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum. Pam Hames of South Pasadena, vice president of Las Voluntarias y Los Ayudantes, is coordinating the program with Arboretum history curator Sandy Snider.

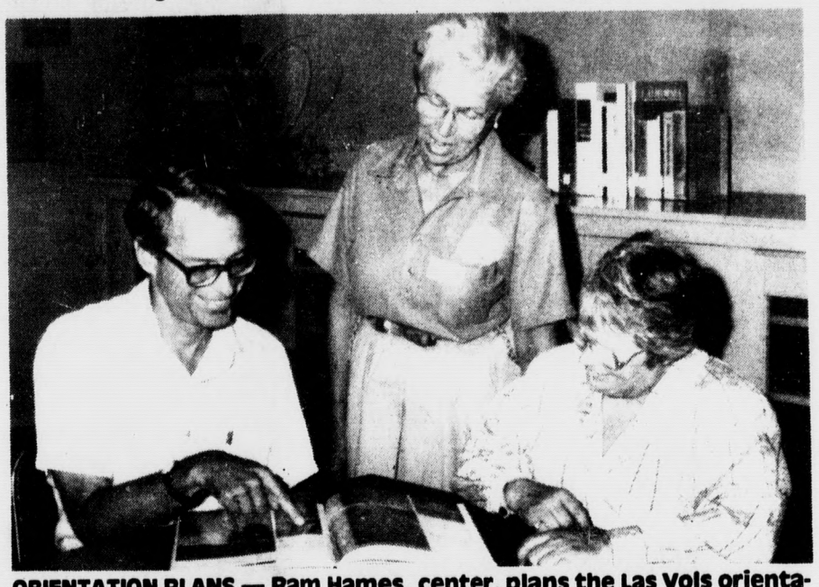

The three-hour classes will be offered Tuesdays in the classroom, on the arboretum grounds and in the historical buildings, culminating in a "welcome luncheon" at graduation.

A slide show, "Meet the Arboretum" will kick off the orientation, which will include a walking tour of the plant science library, coffee shop, foundation office and gift shop as well as a tram tour of the 127-acre garden.

Subsequent orientation meetings will include the tropical and propagation greenhouses, herbarium, the Arboretum's computerized mapping system, Garden for All Seasons, Water Conservation Garden, South African and Australian sections and a walking tour of the historical section, which includes the Queen Anne Cottage and its coach barn and the Hugo Reid Adobe. Also included in orientation is a tour of the new forest area and aquatic habitat as well as a walk around the upper lake, featuring the bird population.

Conducting the course will be assistant superintendent Tim Lindsay, Snider, librarian Joan de Fato, botanists Allen Howard and David Lofgren, senior biologist Jim Baumi, herbarium curator Suzanne Granger, head gardener Dale Witt and experienced volunteers.

For information on becoming an Arboretum volunteer call Mary Ann Camperi at 821-3237.

Reference Librarian, Arcadia Public Library

The library's hours for the fall have not changed. They are Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The library is closed on Sunday.

Look for construction of the library remodeling and expansion project to begin approximately June 1994. The Arcadia City Council has approved the library's renovation project and $4.9 million has been alloted for the job. The library staff will keep residents informed of any changes affecting them during the contruction phase.

A new product has been added to the library...PARIS (Personal Access Regional Informaiton Station). Newly developed by EMDA Inc. of Pasadena, PARIS provides access to information of interest to San Gabriel Valley residents. In particular, the Arcadia Public Library can now call up the Pasadena Public Library's on-line catalogue of holdings, retrieve a list of local clubs and organizations and their meeting location and times, view and up-to-date calendar of local events and call up a job market. Movie schedules, movie reviews and a guide to over 180 restaurants in the area are part of the database as well. PARIS is currently available to staff only; however, plans are being made for public access through one of the library's computer terminals. Contact a reference librarian for more information.

Among the new books received in the library are "Focus: Memoirs of a Life in Photography" by Beaumont Newhall; "But I Wouldn't Want to Die There—a Jenny Cain Mystery," by Nancy Pickard; "Free to Live" by Ivana Trump; and "The Paintings of California" by Arnold Skolnick; and "Consider This, Senora," by Harriet Doerr.

A new children's book of interest to future politicians is "The 1992 Election" by Gene Brown. It discusses issues, primaries, candidates and explains the outcome of the 1992 race in a format that children will understand.

BURLINGTON OPENS — Burlington Coat Factory replaces Hinshaw's at the corner of Baldwin Ave. and Duarte Rd.

Burlington offers coats and more at Hinshaw site

Two floors and 100,000 square feet of the former Hinshaw's store at the corner of Duarte Rd. and Baldwin Ave. opened on Tuesday as the Burlington Coat Factory, which manager Bruce Hackel describes as a "pretty-much full line department store"..."with discount prices.

On the main floor, Burlington will offer women's sportswear, lingerie, coats, menswear, linens, gifts, jewelry, luggage and shoes, while the lower level will be devoted to children's clothes, furniture and accessories.

The store will stock all sizes in clothing, from infants and petites to large sizes, and "everything in between," added Hackel. The inventory will also include 10,000 coats, as Burlington is the biggest coat retailer in the country.

While its competitors are discount stores, Burlington buys brand name merchandise more like major department stores with full size and color ranges and complete cooordinate groups, explained Hackel, who added that he has set a goal of $20 million in sales during the first year at the Arcadia store. Burlington can offer discount prices on current merchandise because of volume buying, explained the manager, who is in charge of Southern California development.

Burlingtron Coat Factory began in 1928 and opened its retail division in 1970. The Arcadia store will be number 195 out of a total of 202 stores located in almost every state in the country. Monroe Millstein is chairman of the board and president of the family-owned business.

Burlington will spend close to $1 million to renovate the Hinshaw's store, which went out of business last year.

The upper floor of the building, which is owned by Goldenwest Properties, has not been leased at the owner is looking for a tenant at this time, according to Pete Kinnahan, director of economic development for the city of Arcadia.

Council recap

Karoake regulations approved

Following a public hearing at which there were no speakers, the Arcadia City Council voted 4-0 for a text amendment to the Arcadia Municipal Code which adds regulations governing karaoke uses at last week's council meeting. Councilman Robert Harbicht was absent.

The text amendment includes requirements for parking, hours of operation and prohibits private rooms and the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages in any business exclusively operated as a karaoke sing-along. All karaoke businesses will be required to have an approved conditional use permit.

The council action follows a Planning Commission 3-1 approval of the proposed amendment, which was prompted by several police problems associated with the sing-along businesses, accoring to the report prepared by Donna Butler, assistant planning director.

In other action, the council voted 4-0 to deny an appeal to a Planning Commission's denial of a request to construct an 800-square foot detached four-car garage on a lot with two nonconforming single-family dwellings in the 1000 block S. Sixth Ave.

A Community Development Department, which would include planning, building and economic development, was introduced in an ordinance and unanimously approved by the council. The change includes increasing some salaries as well as modifying and retitling some classifications.

Another ordinance was introduced and approved which changes the title of the Personnel Department to the Human Resources Department and designates the Personnel Board as the Human Resources Commission.

PHS beats Alhambra

Pasadena High School's football team took the opening kickoff and drove to Alhambra's 20-yard line to set up Mario Fuentes' 37-yard field goal to give PHS an early 3-0 en route to a 19-0 victory.

Quarterback Chris McAlister connected with tightend Gerard Khorozian on a middle screen pass for a 7-yard scoring run in the second quarter as the Bulldogs went into the locker room at halftime with a 13-0 lead. Fuentes kicked the PAT.

Correy Holly ran a counter 44 yards for Pasadena's final score midway through the third quarter. The PAT missed on a bad snap.

McAlister rushed for 126 yards on 16 carries and completed three of 12 attempts for 38 yards. Holly had 12 carries for 63 yards, while Mike Green got 40 yards on five carries, and Joey Valenzuela carried the ball four times for 28 yards.

Coach Jack Loos credited the following defensive players: Lester Towns, four open field tackles and two sacks; Jamil Brathwaite, three sacks; Addison Hawthorne and Chris Hicks, interceptions; and Damien Alexander broke up four passes.

The offensive line of Dan Gomez, Pedro Vega, Ivan Jiminez and Frank Conley did an "outstanding job," according to Loos.

After opening the season with two losses, Loos changed the offense to "more of an I attack" and it worked as the "kids picked it up quickly," said the coach.

The Bulldogs will host Blair at PCC on Friday, Oct. 1, for a 7:30 p.m. non-league game. Blair, 0-2, has lost to two ranked teams, Los Alamitos, No. 1 in Division II, and St. Monica, No. 1 in Division VIII.

Chave, Chung team up for Maranatha score in loss to Brethren

Quarterback Jose Chavez connected with Issac Chung for a 35-yard scoring pass in the first quarter of Maranatha High School's game with Brethren Christian on Friday night. The touchdown brought the minutemen to within one point of Brethren, who scored and converted earlier. However, it would be the last Maranatha score as the Minutemen ended up losing 34-6 to a team ranked No. 2, according the Maranatha coach Alan Karg.

The Minutemen got the ball inside Brethren's 30-yard line "a couple of times," but could not find the endzone, said Karg, who added, "But for a couple of missed plays here and there, we would have been right in the game."

"Overall we did pretty well...just gave up a couple of cheap TDs at the end," explained Karg.

Shane Kosugi carried the ball 11 times for 41 yards, while Matt Harrison was 12 for 39 yards. Chavez completed three of 16 attempts for 45 yards, with one touchdown and two interceptions.

Defensive back Surfy Taylor was "all over the field, breaking up three passes, and had numerous outstanding defensive plays," according to Karg, who also gave defensive credit to Matt Marshall and Chung, who had 13 and 12 total tackles and assists, respectively.

The Minutemen will face Ontario Christian for their first home game of the season on Saturday, Oct. 2. The 7:30 p.m. game will be played at San Marino High School.

Shepherd scores as Apaches lose 13-6 to Temple City

After a scoreless first quarter, Arcadia High School got a second quarter touchdown when Jon Shepherd scored on a seven-yard run to give the Apaches a short-lived lead as Arcadia lost a 13-6 decision to Temple City in Salter Stadium on Friday night.

The scoring drive, which covered over 70 yards, wasn't the only time the Apaches found Ram territory, as they drove to within scoring distance in their first possession of the third period, only to miss on a field goal attempt.

Tied at 6-6 at the half, the Rams found the endzone in the fourth quarter after a 94-yard drive. Arcadia took the ball with 7:09 on the clock and got the ball across midfield but could not find the endzone again.

Coach Doug Smith said that the Apaches were "1000 percent improved" and that he was "very pleased with their progress." He also said, "Of course, we wanted to win but we were very pleased with the progress." Smith explained that the Apaches are improving each week, "but each week we face a better team."

He added that the team was up for the traditional rivalry with Temple City and that he wants to be sure that "we don't let up" for the Friday, Oct. 1 game with Paramount. The 7:30 p.m. game, the first meeting of the two teams, will be played in Salter Stadium. Paramount, 3-0 on the season, defeated Montclair 19-13 in the season opener and has gone on to blank Verbum Dei, 33-0, and Lakewood, 17-0.

Valley shuts out La Salle

La Salle High School's football squad lost a 30-0 decision to Valley Christian last Friday night; however, Coach Lew Stueck said the "score is not indicative of how the Lancers played."

"I thought we'd play substantially better than we did in the opener against Maranatha and we did," explained Stueck, adding that La Salle played "decent football" for the first three quarters. Defensively, it was the "most physical effort that we've ever had at La Salle."

The Lancers were successful on a goal line stand in the first half; however, three plays later Valley recovered a loose ball in the endzone for a touchdown and a 10-0 first half lead.

La Salle's Rafael Lazcano carried the ball 18 times for 64 yards, while quarterback Ryan Rettig completed three of five attempts for 41 yards and one interception.

Coach Stueck said that he was pleased with the improvement of the defense and if the team continues to improve, "we can be competitive." Defensive leaders included Carlos Guillen, John Alexander, Frank Othman, Chris Johnson, Tony DiCiaccio, Jason Luby, Darrell Diaz, Lazcano, Tim Esquival and Cory Charles. Stueck added that he was pleased with the performance of center Chuck Wert, who was playing his first game.

The Lancers will face Village Christian on Saturday, Oct. 2, 7:30 p.m., at Kennedy High School. Village, which won its first two games of the season, is coming off a loss to Mojave. "If we can reach down and improve as much as we did last week, we can be very competitive (with Village)," explained Stueck.

Singles players lead Arcadia

Arcadia High School's singles tennis players did not lose a set en route to an 11-7 victory over San Marino last Thursday. Pam Trump, who is playing in the No. 1 position for the fourth year in a row, did not even allow her opponents to win a game, chaiming 6-0 victories in all three matches.

In Valerie Brice's first match of the season, she downed her opponents 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, while Alexis Aiken won 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

On the other hand, the Arcadia doubles teams had some trouble. Shama Jayasinghe and Lisa Panoff, playing No. 1, lost all three matches, while Amy Wan and Kathy Wen won one game as did Marian Mar and Lina Somsouk.

Arcadia also defeated Temple City 15-3 last week as all three singles players won all their matches.

With a 5-0 win streak going this season, the Lady Apaches faced Pasadena on Wednesday and will travel to play Crescenta Valley on Friday, Oct. 1 for a 3 p.m. match.

KIDS' DAY

Though established as recently as 1949, under the auspices of Kiwanis International, Kids' Day has become an important holiday throughout the United States and Canada. In recent years upwards of 2,000,000 boys and girls have been entertained by Kiwanis Clubs on this day.

This warm-hearted holiday is the fourth Saturday in September. It began as a natural outflowing of the traditional Kiwanis aim of helping youth - "our greatest resource."

Today many activities celebrate this occasion. Special entertainments and educational projects are sponsored for youngsters. Fund raising drives to benefit youth are often emphasized. And the United States and Canadian Air Forces cooperate by holding open houses at many of their air bases. Small wonder, with such a worthwhile purpose, that this is fast becoming a favorite national holiday, thanks to the efforts of Kiwanis International.
